CARTER'S SPANISH MIXTURE. daily to the remarkable cures performed by the greatest of all medicines, Carter's Spanish Mixture. Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Scrofula, Eruptions on the Skin, Liver Disease, Fevers, Ulcers, Old Sores, Affections of the Kidneys, Diseases of the Throat, Female Complaints, Pains and Aching of the Bones and Joints, are speedily put to flight by using this great and inestimable remedy.

For all diseases of the Blood, nothing has yet been found to compare with it. It cleanses the system of all impurities, acts gently and efficiently on the Liver and Kidneys, strengthens the Digestion, gives tone to the Stomach, makes the Skin clear and healthy, and restores the Constitution enfeebled her wharf until this morning. The English papers by disease or broken down by the excesses of youth to its furnish some highly interesting intelligence from the pristine vigor and strength. For the Ladies, it is incomparably better than all the cos-

The big-booted ezar had his eye on the east, For treaties and truces he cares not the least. And save his good pleasure he conscience hath none, He talks like the Vandal and acts like the Hun. So faithless in peace, and so ruthless in war, Have ye e'er heard of king like the big-booted czar? He stayed not for speech, but with sabre and gun, He rushed into Turkey though cause there was none. But when he got near to the old Iron Gate, He found certain reasons which urged him to wait. For down by the Danube stood Omar Pasha, Prepared to encounter our big-booted ezar. So he drew up his legions-serf, vassal, and thrall His footmen, and horsemen, and cannons, and all Then out spake bold Omar, his hand on his sword. In an attitude fitting an Ottoman Lord, "O come ye in peace here, or come ye in war, Or to see St. Sophia, you big-booted czar ?" "I've long asked your homage, my suit you denied, And my holy religion you've scorned and decried, So now I've come down with this army of mine, The rights and the wrongs of the case to define, And you have not a chance, for the Musselman star Must pale when it looks on the flag of the czar." He flung down his challenge, the Turk took it up, (Remarking on slips 'twixt the lip and the cup) And deigned to his logic the briefest reply,

From Punch.

"That the claim was unjust and its proof was a lie," And he brought up some thousands of swords as a bar To further advance by the big-booted czar. So before Oltenitza the battle took place, And the Russians thought proper to right about face, For the guns of Stamboul had a menacing boom. And a bombshell sent flying the Dannenburg plume, And the Cossacks all grumbled, "'Twere better by far, To eat tallow at home than dine out with the czar. One hint would not do, nor one word in his ear. The despot commands, and his men persevere— So again to the breeze their standards are flung, And Kalafat echoes the war-trumpet tongue, And the Ottoman, charging, has scattered afar The ill-fated troops of the big-booted czar. Shakspeare makes Cæsar express a wish to be surrounded by gentlemen in good condition-persons of a fair rotundity of paunch; and not "lean and hungry" men, like that same Cassius who afterwards, aided and abetted by certain other " lean and hungry" gentlemen, amused himself by putting his knife into his friend's ribs, at the "base of Pompey's statue," whereby "the foremost man of all this breathing world" was stricken down. To play a good knife and fork at the festive board is obviously a much more rational and innocent amusement than to use the former implement upon your fellow crealiving skeletons-ferocious Calvin Edsons. A sanguinary Falstaff would be a monstrous anomaly. In fiction he would be disallowed; on the stage, he would certainly be hooted. Some people have a morbid squeamishness about eating, and fancy that it is very unrefined to confess to an appetite; but we can see nothing so highly poetical in a condition which argues dyspepsia. The Hon. Frederick Froth says: "I'm quite of my Lord Byron's opinion, it's a most disgusting thing to see a woman eat. Horses eat, pigs eat-all sorts of creatures eat. I never eat." But Milton had a healthier taste, and makes the angel who visited our first pa-

Yur word for it, the delusion will thenceforth be dispelled; for the daintiest of them eat, and thrive by eating. A contempt for the pleasures of the table is by no means a common fault. Our countrymen are certainly a nation of good eaters. When a patriot returns from Congress to his native Bunkumville, we give him a dinner; when an ambassador comes home from serving his country abroad, we feed him in public .-Where would be the eloquence of a Fourth of July oration but for the Fourth of July dinner in perspective?
